
Lower ranks indicate greater within-method importance; raw importance magnitudes are not comparable across methods.